	Claims		NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims	1-6	YES
	Claims		NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-6	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations

1 Reference is made to the following document:

D1: DE-A-36 34 977.

2 Document D1 is considered to be the closest prior art for the subject matter of claim 1. D1 discloses (the references in parentheses are to D1):

a motor vehicle steering column comprising a bracket fixed to the vehicle and a steering column tube which can be adjusted for tilt relative to the bracket fixed to the vehicle, by means of an adjusting device, the adjusting device comprising a lever mounted on the bracket so as to swivel, said lever being displaceable about a pivoting axis by means of a drive device, a deflecting yoke which is pivotably connected to the steering column tube being articulated to the output end of the lever.

The subject matter of claim 1 differs therefore from D1 in that the lever can be deflected about its pivoting axis by means of a reciprocating movement at a driving end, equalization between the movement of the input end and of the output end being provided.

The subject matter of claim 1 is therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)).

- 3 The problem addressed by the present invention can therefore be considered that of allowing greater tilt adjustment of the motor vehicle steering column.

The solution to this problem as proposed in claim 1 of the present application involves an inventive step (PCT Article 33(3)) for the following reasons: according to column 9, lines 50 to 55, a person skilled in the art would solve the problem by increasing the length of the lever. A person skilled in the art would therefore not resort to a reciprocating movement of the lever.
